

TARIFF LEADERS PREPARE PLANS FOR BIG BATTLE ON ARREFF

SUMMONS TO SPEAK FOR COALITION

Will Deliver Democrats' "Keynote" Speech as Debate Opens

Washington, Sept. 12.—After clearing his legislative calendar for continuous consideration of the tariff, the Senate settled down today to a somewhat bitter battle over the administrative features and rates of the new bill.

Senator F. M. Simmons (D) of N. C., the minority tariff leader, planned to deliver a Democratic "keynote" speech on the tariff as a veteran of many a tariff battle. Simmons will outline the battle plans of the Democratic-naught coalition, which seeks to eliminate Republican administrative provisions and slash Republican protective rates.

HAS RIGHT OF WAY

The tariff bill now has the right of way in the Senate over all other legislative activities. The coalition effort to inject the Vane case into the special session went down to defeat when the Senate voted, 42 to 24, to postpone action on the question of seating Senator-elect Vane (R) of Pennsylvania, until after the tariff bill is passed. This may bring the Vane case up for a conclusion in late October but, at all events, it will be acted on after December 3, at the next regular session.

The vote, which had no bearing whatever on the seating of Vane, indicated the administration can count on a majority in the Senate on tariff matters, even though a Republican opposition is expected. While nine Republicans all insist, the Democrats, the Republican organization, by gaining five Democratic votes. The result certainly pleased Republican leaders.

A DECIDED VICTORY

"It was a very decided victory," said Senator Watson (R) of Indiana, majority leader. "I am very glad the Senate voted to keep the tariff under consideration. That was the hope of the Democrats, now we will be able to pass the tariff at the next session."

Coalition leaders, however, asserted the vote was no indication of how the Senate would vote on the public rates in the bill. They said that the senators who are in doubt, including nine Democrats and nine Republicans, will be swayed by the administrative features of the bill.

The administrative provisions incidentally will be considered first at the next session. The first important feature reached under the program will be the flexible tariff provision, giving the President power to raise or lower rates to meet "changing conditions of competition." The new provision, which would be considered at the next session, will be opposed by the coalition. If it is passed, the bill, the coalition will have struck a heavy blow at the administration.

Declaring it "would take the 36th division to enforce all the traffic rules now on the books," Irving Malkin, representing a motor trucking corporation, attacked a proposal to bar trucks from Beacon st. between 8 p. m. and 8 a. m., before the Boston Traffic Commission today.

William A. Fisher, chairman of the commission, called a hearing to discuss closing the thoroughfare from Beacon st. to Massachusetts ave. to trucks during night hours.

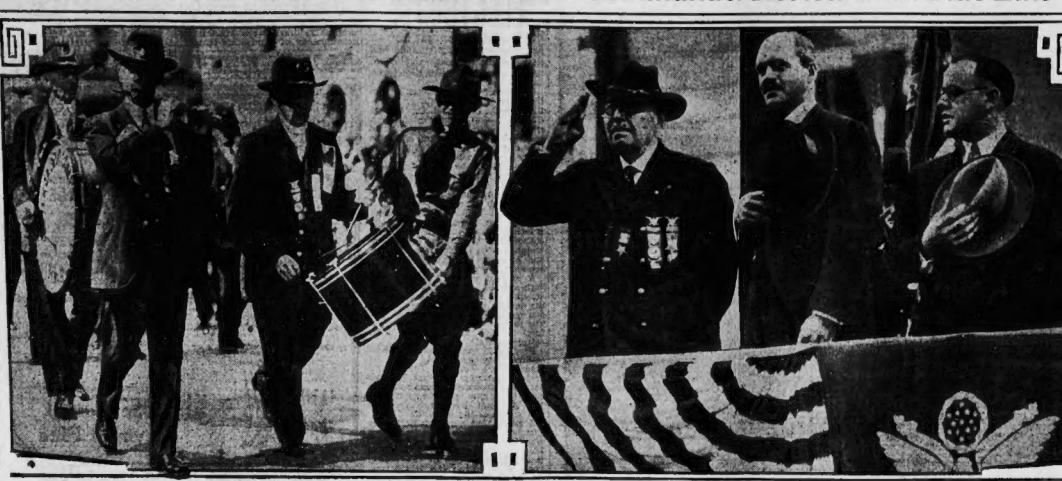

Hotel owners and bystanders whose places of business are located on the corridor appear in favor of the plan. The opposition was represented by Malkin and Ed Baker, traffic expert.

Orders Vessel to Be Sold to Get Cash to Pay the Cook

Although her crew is regularly paid and there was plenty of good, wholesome food aboard, her cook did not get paid and as a result the dredge Neponset will be sold at auction at Woods Hole on Sept. 16 by a representative of the U. S. Marshall's office.

Frank Duffy, cook aboard the Neponset, continued to lead on grub until $250 in back wages had been paid up and then, as his patience exhausted, filed a suit for the $250 and asked that the dredge be sold to satisfy his claim. The court agreed with him and the sale was ordered.

READY TO VISIT 16 COUNTRIES ON AIR TRIP

With Bride He Will Reverse South American Trip of a Year Ago

New York, Sept. 12 (INS)—The new "hus" of the Lindbergh family—Col. Charles A. Anne and the ship that carries them both—are to start on a new 1000-mile air cruise Sept. 20.

The flying-colonel and his bride will reverse the famous circle route he blazed alone through the South American, Central American and West Indian air lines a year ago.

Whirling propellers of the Lindbergh ship will cut the air in 16 foreign countries between the take-off Sept. 20 and the landing 16 days later. From each stop of the flight three lucky local people will be chosen to make the flight to the next stop with the Lindberghs of the Atlantic and his mate.

The purpose of the flight, according to announcement of the flight today by the Pan-American Airways office here, is to fourfold. The flight will formally open the new Lindbergh tourist service and blaze the way over an "air cruise" route to be open for commercial traffic after it has been formally checked over by Col. Lindbergh as technical advisor for the company.

The passenger lines now in operation will be inspected along the northern shores of South America, and the airway to the continent, now open only for mail service, will be checked for safety and feasibility for passenger traffic.

ON BOARD THE SOVIET ICE BREAKER

Sofia, in the Arctic, by Wireless to Moscow, Sept. 12 (AP)—Any hope that Roald Amundsen, or the Alexander crew carried away with the envelope of the Italian dirigible Italia in 1928, and the 1929-30 expedition to the Russian island of Franz Josef, was dispelled today by the Russian scientific expedition on this ice breaker.

Roald Amundsen, Russian scientist and explorer, announced that he had been sent to any of the nearest settlements on the ice island of the heroic Norwegian, but he was not permitted to land.

"If Amundsen or any other who were on the ship, they would have made their way to one of the supply depots left by former expeditions on Cape Flora and Rindolf Islands."

"Both of these points we searched carefully but unhappily found no trace of the unfortunates and intrepid explorers."

SCIENCE MAKES GASOLINE BY ELECTRICITY

Minneapolis, Sept. 12 (AP)—A new way of making gasoline and oil by electricity was exhibited to the American Chemical Society today.

The discovery is the work of two University of Minnesota chemists, Prof. S. C. Lind and Dr. George Glockner. Simply by switching an electrical current through "wild gas" that escapes from oil wells they convert it into gasoline or oil.

The new process gets away from the use of fire or heat, heretofore an almost universal need of manufacturing. The electrified gas has the same temperature as that of the room in which it is worked.

Gas is kept flowing slowly through an apparatus which in principle is not unlike a kitchen cooker. It is a glass container, wrapped with black electrical tape and carrying an inner tube that conducts electricity.

A current of small power, but with a speed of 1800 volts is turned on, and oil or gasoline gathers at the bottom, in proportions of about one quart from 80 gallons of gas. The process has been used successfully on five kinds of gas from petroleum wells.

A riddle that has been bothering chemists in many branches of manufacturing was solved by Prof. Lind in another report. He has made phosgene one of the poison gases used during the world war, merely by turning light upon carbon monoxide and chlorine. The light caused the two gases to combine into phosgene.

POISON WOMAN LIES 4 DAYS BY ROADSIDE

Warren, Sept. 12.—Believed to have lain unconscious for four days beside the road in Quabog at, here, Mrs. Edna Laibao of Middlesex st., Springfield, was dead today. Police believe she took her own life by poison.

The woman, still alive, was found behind a pile of lumber by Royal G. McIntyre, Quabog at, garage man. She died at the office of Medical Examiner Charles A. Deland.

Letters which were discovered on Mrs. Laibao's body convince police she took her own life. One of the notes asked that Dr. George D. Belcher of Springfield be notified. Dr. Belcher told the authorities the woman called on him and appeared then to be in an abnormal, depressed condition mentally. She said she was going "to the country" and would probably never see him again. Dr. Belcher declared.

Evidence pointed to the likelihood Mrs. Laibao lay dying beside the Quabog at, lumber pile since Saturday. She was dressed in a raincoat, and an umbrella was near her. The last rainstorm, requiring a coat, was on Saturday. Witnesses told of seeing the umbrella there during the four days. The woman's body was concealed by the lumber.

ASKS BRITAIN TO QUIT PALESTINE

London, Sept. 12 (AP).—Viscount Rothermere, British publisher, writing for the Daily Mail, today said Great Britain should forthwith hand back to the League of Nations its mandate for Palestine "or the middle east may be our ruin."

He suggested the United States was much more attractive to the Jews as a national home than the prospect of "paternalistic poverty in Palestine."

Viscount Rothermere charged that the Balfour declaration setting aside Palestine as a national home for Jews was intended originally "to appeal to Zionist Jews who were particularly strong in Germany and Austria."

The Balfour declaration, which was never submitted either to the nation or to Parliament, is the sole reason for our presence in Palestine.

"Morally we are under no obligation to remain. Financially we incur a heavy loss in doing so. Politically our futile efforts to make Palestine an abode for Jews exposes us to dangerous hostility from the 5,000,000 Arabs in the middle east."

Italy would be a far more suitable mandatory for the middle east. Let us get away from this barren nest while there yet is time.

STATE TO REST IN PANTAGES' WIFE'S CASE

Los Angeles, Sept. 12 (INS)—With the state prepared to end its case today in the trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages for manslaughter, a reversal of the battle was expected on whether she was drunk when her car smashed into that of Joe Rokumoto.

The state, it was announced, will call additional witnesses to testify the wife of the millionaire theater operator was intoxicated at the wheel of her automobile.

"I saw a big car coming on the wrong side of the street. I ran across the street to get out of the way. Just as I reached the curb I heard a crash."

She went to the car and saw Mrs. Pantages.

"Her eyes were droopy; half closed and had a rather glassy expression. She had no hat and her hair was matted and she was utterly indifferent as to what had happened," the witness said. "In my opinion she was intoxicated."

Ralph Kenyon, a chauffeur, who was driving directly behind Rokumoto, said he had observed no indication of liquor on Mrs. Pantages' person or breath, although for

Real "Ho Men" Like Perfumery! That's a Secret, Jack!

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP)—The National Barber and Beauty Supply Men's Association today announced today that the American ho-man is secretly very fond of perfumery.

Like is the scent that sends man on his way rejecting. He fills it on his face and his hair. His popularity, the association agreed, is based on its reputation as being "manly."

The gentle scent of violet is in had odor with make, the barbers said, classifying it as "too dainty," but rose in hair tonic goes over big.

Five minutes he was close to her while trying to stop the flow of blood from her nose.

Kenyon's story corroborated that of the crash told by other witnesses—that Mrs. Pantages drove on the wrong side of the street and hit Rokumoto's car a terrific blow.

A quartet of policemen said they thought she was drunk. They told of her efforts to avoid being taken to the hospital in a police ambulance.

PRISONER WILL REENACT DEATH AT ROADHOUSE

Providence, Sept. 12 (AP)—Pasquale "Patsy" de Luca, returned by police from Lawrence, Mass., to Warwick for further questioning about the murder of Alfredo "Red" Russo on the night of August 31 at Palace Gardens, today will accompany Warwick and state police to the scene of the slaying.

In the ward of the Malasao and Turino roadhouse, he will re-enact for them the part he says he played when the Providence "insurance racketeer" walked from the place with three companions and was shot down from behind.

Through a three-hour grilling at Warwick police headquarters de Luca chugged to his original statement that he had been with Russo for an hour and a half before the murder and, with John Crabona and "Cuffee" Frank diDominio, had just left the roadhouse when shooting started.

Repeated questions fired at him by Chief Ellis A. Grassano and Lieut. Henry J. Ladoux of Warwick and Lieut. Harold R. Sitenan of the state police failed to make him admit he knew who killed Russo.

COOLIDGE LAUDS RANK AND FILE OF FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

Throngs Serving U. S. at Big Personal Sacrifice, Says Ex-President

THE fourth article on "What It Means to Be President" is published by the Boston Evening American today.

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
ARTICLE NO. 4

ONE of the most appalling trials which confronts a President is the perpetual clamor for public utterances. Invitations are constant and pressing. They come by wire, by mail, and by delegations. No event of importance is celebrated by any group anywhere in the United States without their inviting him to come to deliver an oration.

When others are enjoying a holiday, he is expected to make a public appearance in order to entertain and instruct by a formal address.

There are a few public statements that he does not deliver in person, like proclamations and messages, which go to the Congress, either reporting his views on the state of the Union in his annual message or giving his reasons for rejecting legislation in a veto.

These productions vary in length. My annual message would be about 12,000 words. My speeches would average a little over 3,000 words. In the course of a year the entire number reaches about 20, which probably represents an output of at least 75,000 words.

This kind of work is very exacting. It requires the most abhorrent and extended research and study, and the most careful and painstaking thought. Each word has to be weighed, the realization that it is a presidential utterance which will be dissected at home and abroad to discover its outward meaning and any possible hidden implications.

Before each address was finished it was thoroughly examined by one or two of my staff, and oftentimes by a member of the cabinet. It was not difficult for me to deliver an address. The difficulty lay in its preparation. This is an important part of the work of a President which he cannot escape. It is inherent in the office.

Plenty of White House Pets

A GREAT many presents come to the White House, which are all cherished, not so much for their intrinsic value as because they are tokens of esteem and affection. Almost everything that can be eaten comes. We always knew what to do with that. But some of the pets that were offered us were more of a problem.

I had a beautiful black-haired bear that was brought all the way from Mexico in a truck, and a pair of lion cubs, now grown up, and a small species of hippopotamus which came from South Africa. These and other animals and birds have been placed in the zoological quarters in Rock Creek Park.

We always had more dogs than we could take care of. My favorites were the white collies, which became so much associated with me that they are enshrined in my bookplate, where they will live as long as our country endures. One of them, Prudence Prim, was especially attached to Mrs. Coolidge. We lost her in the Black Hills. She lies out there in the shadow of Bear Butte, where the Indians told me the Great Spirit came to commune with his children.

One was my companion, Rob Roy. He was a stately gentleman of great courage and fidelity. He loved to hobnob with the second-story window sills and around the south grounds. Nights he remained in my room, and afternoons went with me to the office. His special delight was to ride with me in the boats when I went fishing.

So, although I knew he would bark for joy as the grim boatman ferried him across the dark waters of the lake, yet his going left me lonely on the hither shore. As I left office I realized that the more I had seen of the workings of the Federal Government, the more I came to have for it. It is carried on by hundreds of thousands of people. Some prove incompetent. A very few are tempted to become disloyal to their trust. But the great rank and file of them are of good ability, conscientious and faithful public servants.

While some are paid more than they would earn in private life, great throngs are serving at a distinct personal sacrifice. Among the higher officials this is almost always that it could be adopted without greatly endangering the revenue.

Making Appointments Perplexing Task

BUT a President cannot, with success, constantly appeal to the country, after a time he will get no response. The people have their own affairs to look after and cannot give much attention to what the Congress is doing. If he takes a position, and stands by it, ultimately it will be adopted. Most of the policies set out in my first Annual Message have become law, but it took several years to get action on some of them.

One of the most perplexing and at the same time most important functions of the President is the making of appointments. In some cases he acts alone, but usually they are made with the advice and consent of the Senate. It is the practice to consult Senators of his own party before making an appointment from their respective states. In choosing persons for service over the whole or any considerable portion of a single state, it is customary to rely entirely upon the party Senators from that state for recommendations.

It is not possible to find men who are perfect. Selection always has to be limited to human beings, whatever choice is made. It is therefore always possible to point out defects.

The supposition that no one should be appointed who has had experience in the field which he is to supervise is extremely detrimental to the public service. An interstate commerce commissioner is much better qualified if he knows something about transportation. A federal trade commissioner can render much better service if he has had a legal practice which extended into large business transactions. The assertion of those who contend that persons accepting a government appointment would betray their trust in favor of former associates, can be understood personal interest and reputation in the conduct of a public office, if he goes wrong, it will not be because of former relations, but because he is a bad man. The same interest that reached him would reach any bad man, irrespective of former life history.

What we need in appointive positions is men of knowledge and experience who have sufficient character to resist temptations. If that standard is maintained, we need not be concerned about their former activities. If it is not maintained, all the restrictions on their past employment that can be conceived will be of no avail.

The more experience I had in making appointments, the more I became convinced that attempts to put limitations on the appointing power are a mistake. It should be possible to choose a well-qualified person wherever he can be found.

When restrictions are placed on residence, occupation, or profession, it almost always happens that someone is found who is universally admitted to be the best qualified, but who is eliminated by the artificial specifications.

So long as the Senate has the power to reject nominations, there is little danger that a President would abuse his authority if he were given the largest possible freedom in his choices.

The public service would be improved if all vacancies were filled by simply appointing the best ability and character that can be found. That is what is done in private business. The adoption of any other course handicaps the Government in all its operations.

GERMANS BACK 'TARIFF TRUCE'

Geneva, Sept. 12 (AP)—Germany's ideas regarding a "United States" of Europe were outlined to the economic committee of the League of Nations today by Dr. Rudolph Breitscheid, leader of the Social Democrats, largest German political party.

Enlarging upon the views of Foreign Minister Stresemann which indicated German support for M. Briand's Pan-European plan, Breitscheid announced his support of a tariff "truce" throughout the continent for at least three years rather than the two years suggested by the British and French.

One important point of difference, announced was that he believed an economic confederation of European states must have its initial basis in common political interest to assure success.

Will Honor Winner of Schneider Race

London, Sept. 12—Flying Officer H. J. 22, who won the Schneider cup race for England, is to receive the Cross of the Royal Air Force from King George.

Lord Thomson, minister of air, made the announcement at a luncheon offered by the British government to the Italian and British Schneider cup teams.

Launch Providence Man's 139-Ft. Yacht

Rath, Me., Sept. 12 (AP)—The 139-foot yacht Paragon was launched today by the Bath Iron Works Corporation for Charles J. Davel of Providence, R. I., a member of the New York, Eastern and Boston yacht clubs.

The yacht, whose engines are expected to develop 300 horsepower and give a speed of 15 nautical miles an hour, was christened with grape juice by Miss Mary Newell of this city, in the absence of Mrs. Davel, who is in the West in ill-health.

Radio Thanksgiving Day, two years ago, the state prison at Folsom, Cal., was the scene of the bloodiest riot, and it happened but broke in America's penal history. Nearly 1500 hardened convicts, led by five desperado men with a smuggled gun, were roused to such a pitch of frenzy that for two days they threw the whole district into a panic of terror. Folsom, Cal., is now a quiet town, but the riotous episode, which served as the basis for the picture "The Great Escape," is the story of the gangster who caused Gov. C. G. Young to call out the state militia.

An accurate dramatization of the story will be broadcast tonight on the latest of the "True Detective" series, the "Columbus" episode, the radio audience is promised an entertainment replete with thrills.

HANK KIMMONS will present "The Cape Cod Kid," in the "Howl, Howl" broadcast through WMAZ at 10:30 o'clock tonight. The play was written at a time when authors counted on amusing a great majority of their readers, and it is a story of a boy who goes to Cape Cod. ## BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England

By GEORGE W. HAMBLIN

His chauffeur took him to the Newport Airship Corporation's field, where Joe James loaded him into a New Standard, and the flight to Boston started. As soon as the ship was landed here, Crocker Snow stepped into the breach, and guided Whitney into a Stearman, piloted by Olcott S. Payson. With a mechanic along for company, the long, tough grind against a head wind started, with Albany nestling on the other side of the Berkshire

Upon arrival there, a Colonial Western Airways Pitcairn Mailwing was pressed into service, and the final leg of the hop, to Detroit, begun. The latter ship was chartered because of the fact that night was coming on, and the Stearman was not carrying night-

And don't think that flight wasn't carried out on schedule. All connections were made right on time. In fact, the airport hostesses of Newport Airport came along with James, sitting up front in the Standard with Whitney. The hostesses, Miss Jane Smith, is the second of her kind in New England. She and her sister, Mrs. J. W. Smith of Boston, stepped into the premiere role during the air meet held recently at Falmouth Airport. Now Bill Denny, manager of the field down there for Lodgington Philbrick Airport Service, won't do without a charming lady to greet visiting fliers.

Have received a personal invitation from Bob Emery, who cavorts around WEEI with his Big Brother Club, to attend the radio interview between Frank C. Crowley, lieutenant, A. C. R., and air mail pilot, and the genial Bob this coming Friday night.

We have interviewed Frank on the air before and we will certainly go up to the studio to hear Bob shoot questions at him.

This broadcast will be entertaining to grownups as well as members of the Big Brother Club, because every time Frank says something he says something worthwhile.

Curious Planet Service, in case you don't believe us, comes to bat with the following items:

After a couple of years of active duty at the airport, during which he was the "big noise" in the old Boston Airport, Corp. after B. F. Billings left, Mason Sears has been recruited by the Boston office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, under the assumed capacity as Gil Ervin's personal staff. In Sears' place, W. J. Allstrom has been appointed operations manager. Al Sherman is now service manager for the company all over New England, which means he visits every plane, after leaving O. K'd by the FBI, and will receive its final check from Sherman, and then be turned over to the traffic department, over which Allstrom is chief, and "Ken"

In the cross-country line, Kendall and Jack Moran, federal aircraft inspector, went up to Worcester in a Warner-engined Comman-Aire. Jack had a few students he wanted to check out up there, and Kendall wanted the cross-country experience, so off they Joe Barber took the Fairchild cabin monoplane up to Portland, left it there and brought back another Fairchild, equipped with an aerial photograph outfit. This ship will be used by Joe and Chief Photographer Eddie Ramsdell for the map work of the City of Boston.

When fifteen "Beano" Bean went up to his home in Plymouth, N. H., with Lowell White as check pilot, he never thought that it was going to take him four days to get back. Bad weather set in, and the days were long, but not awfully long, because he had a nice vacation with his folks. White had to leave and go out to the Curtiss Instructors' school at Detroit, so Barber went up to Plymouth over the road, and came back with Bean.

With a passenger who had to be in Freeport, Mass., up near Gloucester, right away, Harold G. "Waco" Crowley wound up the Ireland seaplane and hopped up there. This was another time where the land plane wouldn't have been of any use at all, but where the seaplane steps right in and goes places.

After attending the instructor school at Detroit, Paul Herman, pilot for Curtiss, returned to the fold. Paul is the chap who takes 'em up when they are deaf and brings them down hearing things, and how

SAY IT WITH SONGS

The Great Radio Romance

Now you can hear Vitaphone at its best! On the third anniversary of the birth of this new amusement miracle, Al Jolson, pioneer Vitaphone star, returns to demonstrate the surprising strides this marvel of the movies has made in the intervening years.

In "Say It With Songs," Warner Bros. present the final fruit of three years of sensational development. The day of experiment is over. Full accomplishment is here in this great epic of emotion.

Only Vitaphone could have given you the true Al Jolson, the Jolson who took the world by storm in "The Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool"—for this amazingly magnetic star had to be heard to be appreciated.

And only Vitaphone could tell a story such as "Say It With Songs"—a story of searing heartache eased by a moving melody—the story of a high romance that is first shattered and then remodeled by—a song!

If you thought, as most everybody did, that "The Singing Fool" was the most gripping entertainment even Vitaphone could produce, see "Say It With Songs" and admit you were wrong.

You've never heard Al Jolson sing so many haunting hits. You've never seen him act so stirringly. "You ain't seen nothin' yet"—until you see "Say It With Songs."

With adorable little Davey Lee, lovely Marian Nixon, and other famous favorites

HIGH SCHOOLS REOPEN WITH 132,000 PUPILS

The Scene in Woburns 'Dirtiest River' Case

By FRED TOYE
BOSTON MEN are more romantic than Boston women. That's the opinion of John Regan, manager of the Quincy House. And who is there more competent to pass upon the romance of this man who has seen the coming and going of thousands of our citizens, great and small; who has catered to their wants and lent an attentive ear to their confidences over a long train of years?

SOMES OF men have been trooping into the old caravanserai on Brattle st. since the announcement of its impending closing. They have sought out the rooms that hold fond memories of 20 or 40 years ago. They wander through halls that were once the Japanese garden with its colored fountain and live crocuses; through the scenes of the old Reimsman Cafe, and the famous Room 6, where the old "Board of Strategy" conducted its mysterious sessions which were represented among the 25,000 pupils who attended school today in the Hub.

During the summer vacation many school houses were demolished and renovated, providing a seat for every pupil. The normal increase of the school population each year is about 1200 pupils and this year was no different from others. Until the roll is called and checked at the end of the day, the school authorities will not know the exact number of pupils under their tutelage.

The hundreds of pupils registered today and received class assignments. The study program starts tomorrow. Today there were 4200 teachers present to take care of the pupils. There was also 290 school buildings and 200 portable school structures in running order for the housing of the pupils.

THREE NEW BUILDINGS
Three new school buildings have been placed at the disposal of the school committee by Schoolhouse Commissioner William C. Blawie at a cost of over $400,000. Renovation and other work on old buildings during the summer has cost the city nearly another half million dollars.

Three other new schools are now under construction which include the $1,000,000 Brighton high school and two elementary schools. A new elementary school in Peterboro st. Back Bay was opened for the first time also a new school for girls at the Continuation school in Common st. South End and an addition to the Bradford school in Mattachine st.

The overflow of the Boston Latin school was taken care of in the renovated Sharp school, Bowdoin st. West End, the oldest school in Boston, costing the city $200,000 for repairs.

Many of the schools have been equipped with modern methods of caring for the health of the children. In both the old and new buildings the work along this line was supervised by Dr. John A. Connolly, director of school hygiene.

The Boston Clerical school has been provided with domestic science units. This was done to provide for the overcrowding of the Roxbury High School for Girls. In addition, 22 rooms of the boys' unit at the new Roxbury Memorial high school have been remedied for use of girls.

SUCCEEDS RAFFLE
The old Hyde Park high school has been changed to an intermediate school. This was made possible by the completion of the high school in that district, and will relieve the congestion in the intermediate grades.

Patrick J. Campbell, former head of the Latin school, took his place as an assistant superintendent of schools, succeeding Julius L. Rafter, who retired.

The new headmaster of the Latin school is Joseph L. Powers. William H. J. Kennedy will be head of the Teachers' College, taking the place of Wallace C. Newell, retiring.

Miss Alice M. Twigg becomes head of the Teacher's College staff. Miss Anna R. Mohan is the new head of the Church district and Leroy K. Houghton will succeed the Francis Parkman district.

Airport Head Races to Sail on Bremen
With but three hours in time to connect with the S. S. Bremen sailing from New York, Lieut. Joseph Wilson, acting commander of the Boston airport, climbed into a plane piloted by Mitchell Field.

Island, by Capt. Stromme, in time to catch the Bremen. When he reached the New York pier before the Bremen sailed.

At the last steamed out of New York harbor, Capt. Stromme drove his ship toward the Bremen as a racing salute to Lieut. Wilson.

NEIGHBORS AID CHILDREN OF JAILED MAN

Lynn Totals Left Destitute as Mother Flees After Her Husband's Arrest

While their father seeks $1000 bail after appealing a sentence on liquor charges in Lynn district court, the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waldron of Elmwood st., Lynn, are depending on the kindness of neighbors to keep them fed. Their mother disappeared Saturday.

Waldron was in court today on charges of keeping liquor, as the result of a raid on his home last Saturday. His wife fled out the rear door when the raiders arrived. She has not been heard from since.

The husband received six months in the house of correction and a $10 fine, which he appealed. A warrant is also waiting for Mrs. Waldron on charges of selling liquor.

More than a year ago the two received five months sentence each on liquor charges. They served their terms at different times so the children might have a guardian.

MASTER VISITS DUMPING SPOT WITH COUNSEL

Hearing Delayed by Inspection; $40,000 Is Ready for Improvements

The masters' hearing on the suit brought by the state against two Woburn industries to enjoin them from dumping waste in the Abenona river, started at the State House today.

After a brief meeting, Atty. George R. Jones, the master, with Asst. Atty. Gen. Edwin P. Monahan and George Loring, together with Robert Gallagher and William Hershey, counsel for the defendants, adjourned to view the scene.

Yesterday the attorney-general's office received word from Mayor Harold P. Johnson of Woburn, that he hoped to spend $40,000 to bring about improvements.

The action is a result of the long controversy over the alleged pollution of the river, frequently described by residents of Winchester, the principal objections, as the first great stream in Massachusetts.

Should the suit be successfully prosecuted, the tanneries have no alternative but to move to another location. Thus the 400 to 500 persons employed in the establishment face possible loss of their jobs.

It is expected that Woburn's "sewer" scandal, which has so far resulted in nine suits through which the city hopes to recover some $75,000 expended on sewer pipes which were never used, will be aired during the hearings.

REINCARNATED' CATS FACE LOSS OF FORTUNE IN COURT DECREE

GARRITY ISSUE WILL FIGHT TO BE TRIED

Mephews of Boston Woman Seek Money She Left to Three Pats

Having heard evidence in the effect that Miss Charlotte Rutton, 78, of St. Botolph st., Boston, provided in her will for the support of three cats because she believed them to be the reincarnated spirits of her three dead sisters, the Massachusetts Supreme Court, in a decision handed down today, grants a writ to contest her sanity before a jury.

Miss Rutton died Aug. 29, 1924. Her nephews are attempting to break her will.

According to counsel for the plaintiffs, Miss Rutton lived alone with her three cats after her sisters had died.

The cats are at table with their mistress and were addressed conversationally by her, the court was told. Miss Rutton always named each of the animals and, at night, the plaintiff, lawyer, and she treated the pets in every way as if they were human beings.

She was convinced that the souls of her sisters resided in the bodies of the cats, the court was informed. According to counsel, Miss Rutton believed that the cats were an immortal institution and had other eccentric ideas of social ethics. She allegedly adhered religion, but left a large part of her fortune to churches.

The Supreme Court's decree today reversed a lower court decision denying the plaintiffs the right of jury trial on the sanity issue.

DOUGLAS RAPS COAST GUARD

Congressman John J. Douglas, acting as attorney for several men charged with digging clams in contaminated water, declared in the district court at Quincy that the coast guard service is maintained for enforcing federal laws and not for state regulations.

"I am told," he said, "that the United States coast guard is not a police force, but is being used for the purpose of enforcing shell fish laws. If this is true, I am going to try to stop it. It is a violation of the constitution and the rights of the people. It is not within the province of the coast guard."

The defendants were arrested at Quincy by a deputy fish and game warden and a crew of the United States cutter. They are held in the district court.

On recovering consciousness, Gibbons said he did not know what had happened him except that he was chased by someone.

GOING GIRLS JOIN HOSPITAL NURSING STAFF

Will Report Monday at City Hospital Training School for Study Course

The first two colored girls ever to be appointed to the nursing staff of the Boston City Hospital will take up their duties with a new class of fifty Monday morning.

The two girls notified of their appointment today by the trustees of the hospital are: Miss Frances Harris, 16, of 100 Haverhill st., Roxbury, and Miss Letitia Campbell, of Gorbam st., North Cambridge.

The decision to appoint colored girls to the hospital training school was made at a recent meeting of the board of trustees.

On learning that application had been made by two colored girls, Dr. Walter G. Taylor and Dr. William Worthy, heading the colored citizens' committee on hospital rights, appealed to the board of trustees to give the matter of the two girls careful consideration.

Two separate investigating committees were appointed, one by the colored citizens' committee and the other by the hospital trustees, to make an investigation.

These girls come to us highly recommended. They will be received the same as any other students and will enjoy equal rights and privileges.

If the girls abide by the rules of the hospital and are able to remain their standing in classes there is no reason why they should not be able to get along the same as the other students.

The girls will be given quarters in the nurses' dormitory and will probably live together in the same rooms.

REP. CROWLEY FOR TAX CUT

The professional man in general and the practitioner in particular oppose the present Federal income tax rates.

Frank B. Crowley, representative in the General Court for Chelsea, today, joined the many who have signified their endorsement of the Boston Evening American's campaign to reduce income taxes on earned income.

"Speaking for the professional at large," Crowley said in endorsing the campaign, "the existing law is especially inadequate and harshly discriminatory."

"Notwithstanding poor business and the absolute necessity of maintaining a fairly high station in life at all hazards, the great mass of professional men in adverse circumstances just about goes through every cent they make."

"The injustice of the present law, with respect to earned income in its specific application to persons who labor for a living, as opposed to income derived merely from the employment of capital, is manifest and manifest."

"I'm for the American's campaign."

Poverty Plea Wins for Rum Law Violator

When a man has a wife and seven children dependent on him and his wages are small, $100 is a lot of money to him and sometimes conditions are such that it is impossible for him to save that amount, a smaller Constabable of New Bedford told Judge James M. Morton, Jr., in the federal court today.

Constabable was fined $100 in April, 1928, for violation of the liquor laws. He was given two months to pay.

Today Probation Officer Richard McLaughlin presented him to the court for violation of his probation. Judge Morton sympathized with the defendant, revoked the fine, and placed him on probation for two years.

She was given a three months suspended sentence and a years probation.

VETERAN CHIEF ASKS TO BE RETIRED

Somerville Fire Fighter Is to Be Pensioned After Nearly 20 Years

Fire Chief Sewall M. Rich, for nearly 20 years head of the Somerville fire department, today requested Mayor Leon M. Conwell of Somerville for retirement from active duty in the department to take effect September 30.

Mayor Conwell will forward the petition for retirement on a pension of half-pay to the Somerville Board of Aldermen at their first meeting after the summer vacation this evening for action.

Chief Rich became a member of the fire department on June 1, 1881, and was appointed chief of the department to succeed the late Chief James B. Hopkins, by the late Mayor John M. Woods on January 1, 1910.

During the almost acre of years he has been at the head of the fire department, Chief Rich has seen the department completely reorganized, the call force abolished and the permanent membership more than double in size. He was born in Provincetown in 1864.

Mayor Conwell is undecided as to whether he will name the new head of the fire department at the meeting of the board. Deputy Chief Joseph A. Cribby and District Chief Charles J. Connelley, both veteran members of the Somerville fire department, are mentioned as possible successors to Chief Rich.

Mayor Conwell will send the name of Lieut. George W. Fallon of Hose 8, who recently headed the Civil Service list, for promotion to the rank of captain in the fire department at tonight's meeting of the aldermen. Lieut. Fallon was appointed a call man in the fire department on Sept. 21, 1908, and assigned to Engine 2. He was made a permanent man on May 27, 1909, and promoted to "captain" on March 1, 1918. Practically all of his 22 years of service has been at the quarters of Engine 2, Broadway and Cross st.

CHILDREN HEAR DAVE RUBINOFF

The children of the Home for Jewish Children heard Dave Rubinoff, violinist-conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, in a repertoire of "fantastic musical numbers. Now something new has come into their lives."

"We want more music, Mister," they yelled, and Rubinoff obliged willingly. This bit of sunny brightness was brought to them yesterday under the auspices of the Boston Evening American.

Rubinoff's own interpretations and arrangements of popular airs featured the philanthropic program. Sammy Linn, the Met's ever-smiling and popular pianist, accompanied Rubinoff.

The children are adding whatever he can to the brightness of daily routine.

Football in Mexico
More Revolutions
Spot for Old Guards

THIS MEANS MORE AND BETTER REVOLUTIONS

SENIOR PORTES GIL, President of Mexico, has gone football. The Pres. brought up in a land of revolutions and assassinations, now one at a time, and immediately decided that it was the thing for Mexico. Figuring, perhaps, that while the gang was watching young men making strangulation come under the rules, it couldn't be starting wars. But the good senior doesn't know his football. He's proposing a game between Mexico and Havana, at Mexico City. Now there would be a game. Imagine the cheering when the tequila filled spigs started the battle of yells with the bacardi laden bombs from the Gem of the Antilles.

The air would be full of Carabanas, and shortly, knives. But it would attract many an old grad from these parts. It would recall the old days, when nights before were nights before, with plenty of open, and "good" refreshment for man and beast. It will be a clinch to proselyte a competent gang of seasoned old grads to give their all for dear old Mexico.

Dr. Edward O'Brien, our leading official, will be asked to referee. Eddie is a brave bird, but even a football ref. should use discretion some time. He has announced that this will be his last year in football. Probably will, if he takes that assignment.

Notions and Whatnot

Looks like the boys figure Sharkey to lick Loughran for a couple of weeks. They're trying to sign him for Campolo for the winter shot at Miami.

Tommy is putting on weight, and that slows him up. He will need his speed to keep the Brighton crowd from paring his hair in the canvas.

Jack, incidentally, is the best dressed and most polished individual the fight game has known. He has learned plenty in a few short years.

The nervous fight fan, who goes with every punch, is the country's worst pest, except perhaps the talk-show-mover. The pie throwing comedian has passed out, because the pie has, most likely. Even mother hasn't the time to make the kind she used to make.

A good fighter doesn't care who's tossed in the ring with him. But a good manager is another story.

The boys don't seem to know the straw hat season is over. More of that New England economy.

Personalities

Al Smith, not the candidate, is Boston's biggest baseball fan. He weighs 300 in his running toes, and owns a box at each park.

It is whispered that George Tyler, N. E. umpire, will get a crack at the big league next year. Ty was quite prominent up there with the '14 Braves, if you recall.

Sandy McPherson will walk miles to see a couple of colored ball teams collide. He's Scotch.

Bill Sweeney, old second baseman, laughs when he hears that he may manage the Braves. Will opines that the insurance racket is tough enough. He says the publicity helps.

Bill Delaney, the peanut and popcorn king, admits he's had a crackerjack year.

Lack of auto traffic makes running a swim marathon (to use the Irish manner), a clinch, according to Al Hart, who steered the best B. A. A. asphalt scramble.

Good old Tommy Connolly is recovering from a serious illness in Natick. He's safe at home.

Did You Know?

That John L. would be startled if he came back to find what a great fighter he's rated. When he was living a lot of the boys broke typewriters trying to prove that he never was a champion.

That a bird who goes to six ball games a week in Sept., is a mental case. And incurable.

That Jack Slattery thinks he's the champion smelk catcher of South Shore. And like a fighter disdains defending his title. That the week-end-only noses are making worse wrecks of themselves than the steady inhalers.

That more than half a dozen world series eligibles were never heard of before, and probably never will be again. But they'll get the dough.

That Rogers Hornsby bought an armful of Radio at 40 two years ago. That was the biggest hit the slugger ever made.

HE GOES AFTER 15TH VICTORY

By JOE CASHEMAN

BIG ED MORRIS, Alabama's leading citizen and the Red Sox leading pitcher, goes after his fifteenth victory of the season this afternoon, when the Carrigans and Tigers collide in the second game of their series at Fenway Park.

The ladies will be admitted free of charge to watch Ed perform Friday is the day that is usually set apart for the fair sex at the local ball grounds, but since there was no game last Friday and no game today, none is scheduled for Friday. Ladies' day is promised to show the girls his very best brand of hurling, and as far as we can learn, he never disappoints them.

COMPARATIVELY Little praise

has been bestowed on the native ace this season but his record proves that he has been nearly as effective as last year, when he was rated the prize mound rookie of the campaign.

His mark for last season was 12 wins and 13 defeats. To date this season, he has won 14 and lost 13. He still has a chance to equal or even better his 1923 showing as he is likely to hurl five or six games after today.

When it is considered that he was suffering from a cold from the start of the season until the middle of July, which made it impossible for him to do his best when he did work and which kept him from starting at least half a dozen games, which he would have pitched had he been well, his work this year is highly praiseworthy.

Since finally shaking off the cold, he has hurled as fine ball as any twirler in the business.

When his condition grew so bad on the Sox second tour through the West that he had to be sent to the hospital, he won seven games and lost 10.

By the time the club came back, he was in shape for the first time and buckled right down to the task of pitching his mates out of the cellar.

Since then he has won seven games in 10 starts, which is great pitching with a pennant winner and looking short of superhuman twirling with a last place club.

It is hard to get the club out of the basement yet, but they do get out. All thanks will be due to him, for he is sure for not another of the hurlers has won 10 games or more in the last 500 percentage for the Sox.

THE first game of the current series was one of the most exciting seen here for quite a while. The next two come due to being as good, the fans will certainly get their money's worth.

Going into the eighth inning, the Sox were trailing, 7 to 2. They didn't seem to have a chance, but just as we sat down, Saturday, when they overcame a three-run handicap with two down in the ninth and beat out the St. Louis Browns, they came through again.

They made three runs in the eighth, two in the ninth to tie the score, and manufactured the winning tally in the tenth.

BUCKY HARRIS, Tiger manager,

viewed the game from the grandstand and will again this p.m. he having been suspended for three days as a result of an argument with Umpire Erick Owen.

Harris, we have learned since the club came to town, will be the pilot rear think he ought to be fired, but Owner Navin has decided to keep the former Senator boss.

Which indicates that Navin has a lot of common sense. There is no doubt about Harris being one of the most capable managers in the game. His work in Washington proves that. It is not his fault that the Tigers aren't higher.

Seawanhaka Cup Can Be Won by U.S. Today

Somerville Nines in Second Title Game Sunday

The largest crowd ever to attend a ball game in Somerville is expected at the Richard Trum Playground next Sunday, when the Progressives and the Cubs clash in the second game of their series for the city championships. The Cubs won the first game 5-4. There is no "trick" right field at the Richard Trum field and the Progressives are sure they will even the series there. Considerable interest has been added to the series, as Alderman Robert W. Houley has offered a silver trophy to the most valuable player.

GRIFFITH IS FAVORITE

By JACK CONWAY

New York, Sept. 12—Dr. Ludwig Hayman, Germany's latest gift to the heavyweight situation, will make his American debut when he clashes with Tuffy Griffith at the opening show of the indoor season at Madison Square Garden tonight. Despite the fact Hayman holds the German heavyweight title, Griffith is the favorite to win. Speculative element is of the opinion that Tuffy carries too many guns for the invader.

It will be Griffith's first New York appearance, since he was knocked out by Jimmy Braddock at the Garden a year ago. That bout furnished one of the big fistic upsets in the history of the sport. Griffith has been winning steadily and he is confident he is destined to climb the fistic heights.

Hayman claims that Schmeling is repeatedly refused to meet him.

Fred Sandwina and Harold May will collide in the semifinal. Sandwina has packed on quite a lot of weight and looks as though he is going somewhere in the boxing racket.

Armand Emanuel, coast heavyweight, has finally agreed to meet Jim Maloney in the 10-round semifinal for the Sharkey-Loughran bout on September 26.

At first, Pop Emanuel felt his fighting men needed more time in which to get into condition following his European trip, but finally consented to take the match.

Emanuel will get $3500, while the mus will pull down $12500.

Emanuel gave Loughran a couple of tough fights and has hopes to blasting his way out front in the heavyweight division.

Jack Sharkey will come in from Orangeburg to meet Hayman and Griffith collide at the Garden tonight. The Boston contender figures that he may some day battle the champion.

Sharkey is down to 196 pounds and will only take off three more pounds for his meeting with Loughran. Jack will get down to 196 pounds and will get down to 196 pounds.

Jack will get down to 196 pounds and will get down to 196 pounds.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Golf's Greatest Teacher

Previously I pointed out the advisability of pressing your right elbow slightly toward the left as you addressed the ball.

I suggest here that you cultivate the habit of exerting this slight inward pressure of your right elbow during your swing.

As you begin your take-off back, in the start of the club back, you will have noticed, that the "drift" of the club around toward the right. That's O.K. As the "drift" takes place you can extend the clubbed slightly out away from you—a very fine practice. Not pronounced at this time, but as the club moves toward the right, the "drift" does the right about when it moves straight out, following your left arm and the club. The control the club has in it, I can say, wholly in your left hand and arm. Practice.

2 Holes-in-One Made on Course in Hour

Providence, R. I. (AP)—Two holes-in-one were scored on the golf course of the Wamswicht Country Club within an hour of each other recently.

Judge Benjamin W. Grim, using a spade mallet on the 125-yard third hole, holed his ball to the green where it rested against the marker in the cup. Forty-five minutes later, William C. Perry scored a hole-in-one with his mid-iron on the 171-yard eighth hole. Both were playing in foursomes.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Style sketches from the NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF TOURNAMENT

at Pebble Beach—Del Monte, Cal Sept 2-7

Hart Schaffner & Marx style observers and artists rushed sketches and information by airplane from Pebble Beach to San Francisco. From there this material was sent by telegraph to the rest of the United States in the form you see fit here

Blue sea, wind-swept cypress trees, splashes of color. The picturesque Pebble Beach course made a brilliant setting for the National Amateur Championship. This smart gathering of golf enthusiasts verified every fall style for men forecast by Hart Schaffner & Marx. Corona Brown was as popular as the youthful, well dressed Champion. Bacchus shades, Grenadier Blue, Pyramid Grey were well represented. Spectators favored the two-button peaked lapel suits and some double-breasted models were observed

R. N. Williams Sensation of National Singles Play

BATTLES FRANKLIN TILDE TODAY; TILDE FACES JOHN VAN RYN

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Sept. 12—With attention centered on the Big Bill Tilden and his aspirations to come back after eight years to win his seventh national tennis championship, an even more sensational comeback is being attempted by R. N. Williams of Philadelphia who sat on top of the tennis world in 1924.

Young Williams, playing against his father barely more than half his age, has fought his way through to the quarter final round today, will match his skill and craft today against Francis T. Hunter. In just a veteran, as age is marked in the lawn tennis world, Williams will play only half as well against Hunter as he did in the closing years of his match with Arthur Ashe, former Yale captain, yesterday, to stand as the semi-finalist for today's result are in.

Opposites in court craft and generalship will battle when Johnny Long, Stanford sophomore of Santa Monica, meets Henry W. Austin, England's ranking 13-year. Doug has the typical California game, smashing and driving his way through and forcing his shots at every opportunity. Austin, who has been other hand, plays what has been termed tantalizing tennis. It is going after the point until he has been served to him, does not turn.

Tilden's match with Van Ryn was the star of the show. Big Bill might have had a real battle on his hands were Van Ryn at his best, but the young Princetonian has played an exceedingly erratic game in singles since his return from abroad, where he won both the Wimbledon and Davis Cup doubles paired with William Allcock, the young Texan.

In the only other quarter final matches William Allcock of Fort Worth plays Fritz Mercier of Bethlehem, Pa.

The schedule of today's matches are as follows:

ROSLINDALE AND QUINCY IN 1-1 TIE

Quincy and Roslindale battled in a 1-1 tie in the fifth game of the "Little World Series" played at Fore River field, Quincy.

After holding the Granite City club hitless for six innings, Frank Milliken's hopes of pitching a no-hit no-run game were blasted in the seventh when Buck Freeman, leading batter in the first circuit, poked out a home run to right field. Incidentally, Buck's homer was the first time he has been able to hit the Roslindale twirlers in the last two games and his fourth hit during the series.

Brooklyn Players Appeal to Mayor

The aid of Brooklyn's home men was enlisted in an effort to provide $200 salary due the players in the local team of the New England league. Following the closing of the season Sunday the players without a pay day in the last six weeks were petitioned with no means of returning to their homes.

Mayor J. E. Blake and Director Albert Smith of the Brooklyn Baseball Club were in conference this morning after the players had made an appeal to the club. It was explained that the club had a deficit of $18,000 at the close of the season and the next few days it is expected that money enough will be raised to care for the salaries.

Eddie Maher Gets Hole-in-One at Charles River

Eddie Maher of Norfolk, playing in the Charles River open tournament, joined a hole-in-one club on the 105-yard fourth, when he sunk his snub-nublet shot from the tee.

The opening day of the tournament, which continues today and tomorrow, drew 150 players.

SHARKEY FEELS SUPERIOR WEIGHT WILL GAIN HIM VICTORY

BOSTON BATTLER TO BEAR DOWN ON LUGHRAN AND SEEK KNOCKOUT

By JACK SHARKEY

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., Sept. 12.—During a lull in training here, Gus Wilson asked me what heavyweight game was my hardest fight. I told him George Godfrey did.

I shall never forget the first time I saw Godfrey. It was at a boxing club in Newark, N. J., where I was to battle Charley Weinert the following week.

Before the star bout principals entered the ring, I was introduced. Harry Willis, who at the time was being dogged by Dempsey and Tunney, was also taking a bow as was Godfrey. I stood between the two negro boxers, and even though I am six feet tall, I felt small in comparison with the two giants.

I looked up first at Willis and then at Godfrey and was impressed by their tremendous bulk. I had only been fighting for two years at the time and never thought I would ever get into position to get a shot at Willis.

Johnny Buckley, my manager, was waiting for me when I got out of the ring.

"What big babies!" I said to Buckley as I looked over at Willis and Godfrey. "I guess you'd never think of matching me with either of them."

Within a year, I licked Willis and Godfrey. The bouts were staged within a three-week period.

GODFREY gave me much more opposition than Willis. I took on "Big George" first. For five rounds it was a hard, even battle. The last pace then began to tell on Godfrey and I forged out front. During the last five minutes I put up a commanding lead. At the end the negro was dog tired.

I didn't attempt to make a long range fight out of it. Instead I kept in close where I moved a little bit too fast for the ponderous negro.

With Willis, I made it a long range battle. I made him miss repeatedly and socked him with left and right-hand whistles when he was off balance. Harry was on the verge of a knockout when he fouled his way out in the thirteenth round.

I noticed that Willis had his license as a boxer renewed to New York. He still can lick quite a few of the heavyweights contenders. As for Godfrey, he is one of the best heavyweights in the world. He could upset the average run of heavyweights without half trying.

The fact I have conquered leading heavyweights like Willis and Godfrey makes me confident I shall dispose of Loughran.

Before my bouts with McGillicuddy, Strickling and other greats of the light heavyweight division, some experts picked my opponents to win. On such occasions I would ask myself: "If they thought my opponent could have defeated Godfrey or Willis?"

And the experts usually had it. "No," I have contended, that this proved I was a better boxer than the man they expected to take my measure. The fight result always proved I was right.

BEAVER a good big man can defeat a good little man. Sam Langford, famous Boston Tar Baby, drove this thought home to me during a chat when I first started boxing. He told me of his famous roundhouse knockdown of Joe Johnson in Chelsea, Mass.

Langford was a light heavyweight at the time. Sam was a tremendous biter and in the first round had Johnson down for count of nine, but Jack got up to win the decision.

It was a case of a good big man knocking a good little man.

WEIGHT men once a bout goes more than six rounds in Philadelphia in the old days, they used to have six-round bouts. In those days, one could get a victory 10 pounds and still win.

Jack Dempsey once turned down an offer of $100,000 to box Harry Greb six rounds in Philadelphia. Dempsey would have beaten Greb in 15 rounds, but he wasn't sure he could catch up with the Pittsburgh windmill in a match over the six-round route.

I often think of Greb. He was one of the most magnificent fighters I have ever seen. He was all action in the ring and could even defeat good men who outweighed him by 25 pounds.

AM now in the thick of the training grind. I go on the road for five miles each morning, box six rounds each afternoon, and do an additional six rounds of sparring.

If my intention is to be in the best possible condition when I face Loughran, I intend to beat down the Tommy from the start to the effort to win by a knockout. Loughran has never been knocked out, but he is a first for everyone.

STAR EAGLE END

Manchester Beats Lynn Again, 1 to 0

In one of the thrilling duels ever seen on Athletic Park, Manchester, in the history of the New England League, the Blue Sox emerged the victor over Lynn, 1 to 0.

Manchester has now won two straight in the playoff for the New England league championship. Walter Hayes on the mound for the winners, held the Lynn champions to five hits while Walter Stowers also pitched great ball, allowing only one hit.

Manchester's victory was the second game of the season and interest in the outcome of the game was at fever heat.

Manager Herman J. Wohrman has been rounding up a fine bunch of footballers and expects to have the club ready to open the season on the last Sunday of this month.

Grid Gleanings

Yarmingdale, N. Y., Sept. 12 (INS).—Further drill in the fundamentals with special attention being paid to the art of blocking was scheduled for New York University football camp here today.

Coach Mehan has been free in his praise of Quarterback Oudet and End Jones, a sophomore.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 12 (INS).—Columbia's football squad is fast reaching its full strength. The arrival of Art Hill, Gordon Spencer and Hutch Allan runs to number of men working out daily to St. Crozier has selected a first string eleven and few changes are expected.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 12 (INS).—Taking advantage of the weather Coach Bill Jones is driving his army gridiron hopefuls at top speed. Jones today will put them through a session on the tackling dummies and a dummy scrimmage.

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 12 (INS).—Dartmouth's gridiron squad will soon be ready for scrimmage. The squad has been divided into three groups, ends backs and linemen. The ends are spending most of their time taking out tackles while the backs gallop over the low hurdles.

Cape May, N. J., Sept. 12 (INS).—Pre-season scrimmage has cost the University of Pennsylvania the services of two more players, Gene Kues and Bill Beaumont, veteran guards. They will be missing from today's workout when the red and blue squad is scheduled to go through another grueling session.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 12 (INS).—Three years' Sande Point, Old Aiken and Greentree today remain in the running for the Monty Watbury Memorial Polo Cup.

Sande Point will meet Old Aiken in the second semifinal match Wednesday and if Tommy Hitchcock and his team retain the form they displayed yesterday in triumphing 15 to 11, Sande Point will meet Greentree in the final.

Greentree advanced to the last round by a 20 to 8 win over the Huronians.

Golf Champ Talks on 'Awkwardness'

By HORTON SMITH

U. S. North and South, and French Professional, Champion ONE of golf's most common griefs—the sense of awkwardness—deserves much attention, judging from letters and other comments on that "uneasiness" trouble which has been reaching me for a long time.

For example I have at hand a letter from a Connecticut friend in which he writes that he has been playing golf for about six months, making satisfactory progress, but finds that his chief difficulty is lack of comfort in addressing the ball.

"I feel awkward," he notes, "and seem unable to settle down into a position from which I feel I can properly commence the swing. This feeling is present all the time, and has an effect on my mind—I feel worried always as to the ultimate result of the shot."

THE point raised is an interesting one. Judging by my experience and observation, this "awkward" feeling is well struck root like in the ability to feel absolutely comfortable when addressing the ball. A feeling of awkwardness militates greatly against the proper execution of subsequent movements.

Awkwardness (I use this term for want of a better) is an effect, not a cause. It is something which may not necessarily be graceful.

WE cannot all swing as gracefully as golf's great stars. Such special talent is blessed with complete accuracy of method allied to an inherently beautiful style.

The awkwardness of which I speak is not mere ungainliness of style. Ungainliness of style does not, in itself, necessarily mean that the player's methods are incorrect.

The feeling to which I refer is one that arises from knowing something is wrong in the method of attempting to hit the ball.

ONE cause of that "awkward" feeling is that the majority of beginners imagine it is necessary to contort the body into an unnatural position to make any ORDER to swing the club round the body, keep the feet plantable. It is that ultra-rigidity, the address which produces awkwardness of feeling.

The distribution of the body between the feet should be more or less equal. If one leg has to carry the whole burden, an unnatural strain is imposed upon the natural center round which the club must revolve is disturbed.

Trouble in balancing may cause through the player in placing the ball approximately mid-way between the feet in the address.

GYPSY LOSES ALBANY WINS 3RD CUP RACE

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 12.—By the scant margin of three seconds, the Scotch challenger Gypsy won the American defender Gypsy from winning the Seawanhaka international challenge cup when the Scotchmen won the third of the challenge races with an astringent finish as has been seen on these waters in many a long day.

Had the American defender won the race, the cup would have remained in possession of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club for another year.

But with the score now two to one in favor of the American boat, at least one and possibly two more races will have to be sailed.

CHI Bears Sign Two

Chicago—in New with their program to rebuild their team, the Chicago Bears have signed two new players, Joe Kopka, former tackle, and Ralph Mallard, a six-foot-two-inch, who once captained Creighton University's team at Chicago.

Roxbury A. A. to Have Football Team

After a few years' absence from the gridiron, the Roxbury Athletic Association will be again represented this season with a strong eleven and are out to meet the best amateur and professional teams in New England.

Manager Herman J. Wohrman has been rounding up a fine bunch of footballers and expects to have the club ready to open the season on the last Sunday of this month.

Boston College to Face Strong Opposition This Fall

HARD WORK AHEAD FOR MCKENNEY

By JOHN GILLOOLY
THREE seems to be a general opinion among Boston College grid enthusiasts that the Eagles have nothing to worry about and that Joe McKenney need not be pessimistic about turning out another championship eleven.

But chances are that unless Boston College has a very good eleven this fall they'll drop no less than four football games.

An ordinary college eleven lacks at least five major opponents in the course of the fall season. Notre Dame, Georgetown, New York University and a few more of those more rugged institutions start with the tough ones to face the first Saturday and to play the several opponents up until the snow forces them to quit.

As a matter of fact Boston College will play six of the hardest grid teams in the country. Nobody cares a great deal about these colleges and they're not listed among the country's more notable schools. But these same colleges live for football and produce teams that are not famous but play a bone-crushing brand of football that would thrill any spectator.

The Eagles opponents referred to are Villanova, Fordham, Dayton, Marquette, Duke and Holy Cross. Fordham and Holy Cross are well known.

Dayton and Marquette sound like a couple of prep schools—and here in the East that's what they're supposed to be. But out where the fall corn grows the big fellows don't pick on these two teams if they can avoid them.

Dayton isn't even listed in the football guide. But they've got a team out there, and Boston College is going to travel all the way to Ohio to play them. Considering the trip and all that, it will be lucky to take the railcars back to Boston without a beating.

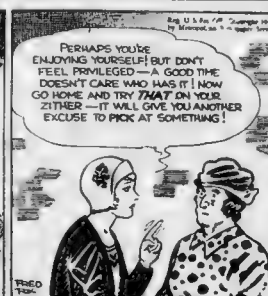

Marquette came to Worcester a year ago, and tied Holy Cross by a score of 6 to 6. They whipped the Crusaders two years ago in Milwaukee. Dayton crushed Iowa State and Kansas last fall, which ought to signify that this team is no soft-up.

The Eagles faunt out to Milwaukee to play Marquette. The opposition there looks larger when you consider the trip and the usual hubbub of alien grounds.

Villanova, by the way, didn't lose a game a year ago although Temple held Villanova to a scoreless tie. The Philadelphia team is coached by the little leader of the "four horsemen" of Notre Dame, Harry Radermacher.

BRAVES CALL IN ROOKIES

Louis, Mo., Sept. 12.—Reconstruction days for the Braves will feature the closing round of the season. Apparently safely buried in the cellar, the Braves are to get an early start on the prospects of the next season by hauling in several rookies.

Two young fly chasers who have appeared in the series with the Cardinals are Boyle and Voyges and the former, especially, showed movements that may get him more than a glancing inspection.

Judge Parks predicts the value of fence busters for the outfield and, no doubt, is going to try half a dozen or more candidates in the hope of trying to match the year's success of the Phillies in getting much heavy hitters as Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul.

Ninety games today and tomorrow will complete the current management and Cantwell probably will oppose Jesse Halpern.

VETS REPORT TO B. U. SQUAD

Boston University's football squad has been strengthened greatly by the appearance of Joe Barrett and Santo Marino, both veterans of two years ago at the Terrier camp in Weston.

Barrett is one of the most versatile members of the squad, and as an old knee injury does not become aggravated this fall the former St. Johnsbury star should enjoy his best season.

Two years ago Barrett reported for the squad as candidate for fullback, but with Crab Walker and Sam Winter taking care of that position there was little opportunity to break into the lineup at that berth.

He tried out for quarterback and performed brilliantly as signal caller until an injury put Arthur Dorfman, first string center, out of commission for a time. It was then that Barrett jumped in to fill the hole in the center of the line, and he performed his new duties in a high class fashion until Dorfman returned.

Little Santo Marino still enjoys the title of the midget of the squad. With two years' experience in back of him Marino should come close to earning the first string quarterback position.

Thurman has been used as quarterback for a part of every drill for the past week but he will not be used there permanently unless absolutely necessary as he is needed at one of the halfback positions.

For the past three seasons Thurman has been one of the leading ball carriers and ground gainers on the squad but with the additional duties of calling signals thrust upon his shoulders the "Dorchester boy" might slow up.

Phil Hooten and Al Bass, two of the leading halfbacks on the squad, are not taking part in the daily drills and it may be several days longer before either is fit to work out. Hooten has left camp and is nursing a sprained back at home.
